WILSON'S ANSWER STIRS UP GERMANY

BANK PANIC FIRST RESULT. ARMY COMMANDERS WILL PLAN CONCENTRATION OF RESOURCES

(By the Associated Press)

London, Oct. 16.—President Wilson's reply to the German peace move produced the "most unfavorable impression in Berlin," says a Central News dispatch from Amsterdam today. The reply's publication, it was added, was followed by a panic in Berlin banking circles and, on the stock exchange. The German Supreme Command, advices state, will come to Berlin at the end of the present week to deliberate on mobilization, concentration of the national strength and raising of the military age.

Americans Break Kreimhild Line.

Washington, Oct. 16.—Substantial gains on both sides of the Meuse against stubborn resistance by the reinforced enemy was reported today by General Pershing in his communique for Tuesday. The Kreimhild line has been broken at new points where Americans closed with the enemy in hand to hand combat.

French Close in Rethel.

Paris, Oct. 16.—French forces last night captured the village of Azy Romagne within a mile of the important railway junction of Rethel, in Champagne, the war office announced today. The French made more progress today north of Sissons and Rethel. They repulsed a violent enemy counter attack near St. Germainmount.

Allies After Belgian Towns.

Sweeping steadily ahead over the lowlands of Belgian-Flanders, the British, French and Belgian armies are rapidly bearing away to the extreme right flank of the German Battle line. Twelve thousand prisoners had been captured in two days, according to official statements. Allied forces had captured Menin and Wervic and crossed the Lys river in the neighborhood of the latter towns. There are unofficial reports that Thorout has been taken and British are within two miles of Courtrai. This completely outflanks Lille from the north. Allies are now eleven miles from Bruges and twenty-five miles from Ghent. They have advanced seven miles since Monday morning. Americans west of the Meuse are slowly but surely cutting their way through the Kriemhild line. They carried Hill 299 which dominates the country west of Romagne and penetrates the second line of the enemy defense in Landres-et-St. George's vicinity.

Bohemia in Revolt.

Paris, Oct. 16.—Meetings called by Czecho Slovak council at Prague, Bohemia, to protest against export of foodstuffs from Bohemia, resulted in a general strike which is developing into revolt according to dispatches from Zurich in today's Paris newspapers. Martial law has been proclaimed throughout the country, according to these dispatches. German troops are occupying Bohemia, Pilse and Tabor. There has been fighting at Brunn, Olmutz and Skoda. The latter town is the seat of big Austrian gun plant where work has been suspended.

Win-the-War Christmas

Your Government Requests You To Do As Much Christmas Shopping in October This Year As You Do in December

Liberty Bonds and War Savings Stamps will occupy the crowning place in Gift Giving this Christmas.

Useless Knickknacks are not going to be the mode at all.

But Useful, Sensible, Practical Gifts should be more popular than ever, says the National Council of Defense.

In Christmases gone by it was all right for those who wished to give tinselled nothings as gifts, but this year we are called upon to remember our Country as we remember our friends.

The Win-The-War Spirit is dominant.

Our Government has asked the retailers of the Country not to keep open any extra hours during December; not to employ any extra help for the Christmas trade and to begin the display and sale of Christmas goods the first of October. Retailers will be glad to comply.

Our Government asks you to begin Gift buying early in October and to distribute your purchases equally over the three months of October, November and December.

You, too, will be glad to comply, we know.

That's your way to help.

Begin planning now to do one-third of your Christmas Shopping in October.

"Unconditional Surrender" are mighty hard words to learn, but Prof. Woodrow Wilson insists that the Huns must learn them before they are allowed to play in their neighbor's back yards any more. Seeing that he has some able assistants in the persons of Foch, Pershing, et al., the refractory Pupils will before long get around to where they will spell the words out loud so everybody can hear.

And now Turkey says she wants peace and wants to know the terms upon which the Allies will grant it. With the example of Bulgaria fresh in his mind the Turk evidently knew his time was coming and he had better take what he could get rather than delay the ordeal coming later. The terms the Allies will impose will forever make impossible the Kaiser's dream of a road through Turkey to the East, leaving the British possessions safe from the greedy paws of the Huns. Incidentally the sultan will lose some of his estate and probably be invited to pack up his doll rags and move over into Asia for keeps, thus freeing Constantinople from Turkish rule after nearly 500 years.

By way of showing his real character, the Kaiser some years ago offered a cup, supposedly gold, as a trophy for the winner of a yacht race. It was won by an American boat and brought home. After the war broke out the owners decided to break up the cup, as they were ashamed of its origin. Imagine their feelings when they found that it was only pewter with a veneer of gold over the surface. Instead of being worth $5,000 it was worth about $40. And yet the Kaiser thinks his word for it should be taken when he says he wants peace. Wilson probably remembers the pewter cup incident and wants to be sure the Allies are not getting merely a pewter peace, or gold brick, from the Huns. Perfidy brings its own condemnation and punishment.

Wilson's reply to Germany's pretended offer of acceptance of his terms is about the hardest jolt the Huns have ever received. To be pointedly told that their word cannot and will not be taken at its face value by him and other allied leaders is something new to them. They figured on keeping up their career of duplicity and getting away with it forever, but now they are told that they must quit their deviltry and come clean before they can be acknowledged as human beings again. That is hard for them to understand, but at the present rate Foch, Pershing and Haig will teach it to them in terms of artillery, airplanes, machine guns, rifles and shotguns. They are finding that it is not as easy to get out of a war as it is to get in, because the other fellow has a say about stopping and when he is on top the other fellow wants to make sure the bottom man really means it when he says enough.

A GOOD IMPULSE

By MILDRED WHITE.

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"What a change, Edna, in two short years! Life then was one round of pleasure." "Oh, cheer up, Alice Clayton. Busy yourself with what's going on today and you'll find enough to do. Here I am puzzling myself to find a way to pay car fares, room rent, buy lunches and now a War Savings stamp each month, and all on a salary of $10 a week."

The Claytons at one time had been among the wealthiest families in Seville. Of late fate had dealt harshly with them; mother and father had been victims of an auto accident and a sudden change in the stock market had left them with little more than the old homestead.

"I have it, Alice!" exclaimed Edna after a few thoughtful moments. "All that old jewelry we have in the bottom of our trunk I will take to the melting pot tomorrow. Guess I will at least get one War Savings stamp for all we have stored away, and that will be my stamp for June. Come along now and help me get it out. Oh, there's my little silver watch, nearly ten years old. I doubt if I used it a dozen times. How proud I was the night I first wore it." Lunch hour next day was devoted to disposing of her treasures, and evening found her overjoyed with the results. "Oh, sis!" cried Edna; "just look—two War Savings stamps! Isn't that great? I'm so happy I don't know what to do."

"Yes, Edna, it's fine," said Alice; "you're always so fortunate in all your undertakings."

"The little watch I gave to the Red Cross," continued Edna excitedly, "as they said it was too good for the melting pot."

An eventful month followed, and then came Edna's big vacation. "A fine chance to mend your old clothes," advised Alice as she was leaving for work Monday morning.

"Yes," said Edna as she curled herself up on the couch, buried in one of the latest novels.

Monday morning Fred Morse had been discharged from St. Vincent's hospital, and expected to sail for New York the following day. Two long weeks, the longest he had known in his whole life, had been spent in this hospital, the result of having been injured doing his bit. Together with four others, he had been chosen to give a course of lectures at Camp Upland, and the next day they were to start for the U. S. A.

"I'm completely lost without my wrist watch," said Fred to his nurse, Miss Synd.

"Perhaps I can get you one; it was only last night the president of our Red Cross branch announced the receipt of some watches, and if there are any left I will get one for you."

"There," said Miss Synd as she presented Fred with a watch that afternoon, her great brown eyes sparkling with joy, "the only one left." Fred thanked her sincerely and, opening the case, a small piece of paper dropped out, on which was written: "Contributed by Edna M. Clayton, Seville, Mass." Was he still unconscious, or was it really true? Yes, it surely was so, for there on the cover was the familiar monogram, "E. M. C."

For some time he sat dreaming. In fancy she was with him once again. He could hear her gayly chatting or humming a song as they paddled up river in his favorite canoe. And Edna, pink-cheeked and eyes of azure blue, with her fair golden curls blowing in the gentle summer breeze, resting so comfortably among the cushions.

"Well," thought Fred, "my dear old sweetheart, I'll give you the surprise of your life when I land in New York."

The persistent ringing of the doorbell roused Edna from her reading. What! A letter from Fred Morse postmarked New York! Could it be possible? Quickly tearing open the envelope she read of his receiving the wrist watch and the slip of paper inside. "Will be home by Wednesday. Could we plan for a canoe ride Thursday evening? I will phone you Wednesday night."

Edna could hardly realize that Fred was really coming to see her again, as she had thought he had long since forgotten her. Anxiously she waited for the phone call, and with still greater anxiety for Thursday evening to come. The great, beautiful moon cast its silvery light upon the old familiar river as Fred and Edna slowly paddled to their favorite "cozy corner." Sheltered by overhanging branches, Fred settled himself down beside Edna. Gently drawing her head to his shoulder, he whispered, "Will you be my own sweetheart forever, Edna? I will be here for a month, and how happy I would be to know that you were really mine before I return to camp. Say yes, dear, and don't keep me in suspense." Edna faintly murmured the desired "Yes," and as Fred brushed back her fair golden curls he kissed and kissed the rosy lips soon to be his very own.

"It seems all too good to be true," said Edna a few hours later as they paddled toward the boathouse. "Who ever dreamed of so much good luck coming from that melting-pot scheme?" "It was well for you," said Fred gazing at his wrist watch, "that you were rescued from that melting pot or I would not be the happy fellow I am tonight. And hereafter, Edna, I shall take the greatest pleasure in providing you with stamps to the fulfillment of your pledge, my own sweetheart, the dearest girl in this whole wide world."

Military Music

The predominating note in the world today is military. Always, through all the history of music, martial measures have inspired men to battle and steered their women with the courage to send them forth to win.

These are stirring times and the music of today is stirring. Many of the songs we hear now for the first time are destined to become immortal—to stand forever as monuments to our glory and the glory of our Allies. "Over There" is such a song—"Tipperary" another.

Then there are the tunes of past struggles—"Dixie" and the rest. Or the great, wonderfully inspiring marches of Sousa. All these and many more will thrill your senses if you will let

SHRAPNEL MARKS CROSS ON SOLDIER'S BACK

(By the Associated Press)

Paris, Oct. 16.—Private Jean Fournan of New York City, hereafter will carry a cross on his back as a souvenir of the great war. The wound that has marked him is so unusual that he is known at American military hospital No. 1, where he is now convalescing, as the "Red Cross Man," and doctors, nurses and patients have watched his case with unusual interest.

Fournan is a member of one of the American regiments recently engaged in the fighting around Fismes. He has been in France, since last October, and went through heavy fighting on several fronts without a scratch.

One morning a short time ago, just as his company went over the top, headed for a Boche machine gun nest, a shrapnel shell knocked him out. He had a momentary stinging sensation and then awoke to find himself on an American sanitary train from which he was taken by ambulance to the hospital.

When he was carried to the operating room, the surgeon looked him over and then called the other doctors to come and look. The boy had been hit by two pieces of shrapnel, one of which had gone down his back so close to his spine, that only a miracle saved him from paralysis. The other had crossed at right angles, leaving the mark of a perfect cross on his back.

Fournan has those pieces of shrapnel in his Red Cross treasure bag. He says they're "lucky pieces" because they "only left a scar."

WILSON BRAND POPULAR WITH FRENCH CLOTHIERS

(By the Associated Press)

Paris, Oct. 16.—The name of President Wilson has supplanted those of King George V. of England, and of the late Emperor Nicholas of Russia as a label for popular styles of men's wearing apparel in the Paris shops. "I went to my tailor's to order a new suit, a blue serge, the sort of thing I've been wearing the last twenty years," writes a humorous contributor to L'Oeuvre, "and that worthy called out to the bookkeeper 'One Woodrow Wilson suit,' adding in explanation to me, 'That's the name of the goods.'"

"Then I went to the shirtmaker's where I selected some shirts that only differed from those I used to buy before the war in costing $4 instead of $1.50, and I heard the salesman announce, 'Six President Wilson shirts.'"

"My new boots, comfortable but devoid of elegance, bear branded upon their soles the name of the United States president."

"My collar reminds me of our glorious ally, for though the laundry chemicals have removed my name, that of the president remains indelible, and yet these same collars for years could boast of bearing the name of Nicholas II."

LETTERS FROM SOLDIER BOYS

From Richard Chapman.

I am on the front now and we are having a little snelling and are expecting gas at any time. The shells are bursting in a little village a short distance from where we are trying to sleep. We have plenty of blackberries to eat, but we have to go on No Man's Land to get them. I never have been yet and when it comes my turn I don't think I will like berries any more. Two of the boys went out yesterday and picked about four or five gallons in just a little while, but we couldn't get any of the cooks to make us a pie so we had to eat them with milk and sugar, but they were pretty good that way.

This war don't exactly suit me. The dad gum Dutch don't care if they hurt you. They shoot old scrap iron, slop cans, nail kegs or any thing else they can get with a little gas mixed with it. I sure thought my time had come the other night. I was out on post and about 3 A. M. we got the gas alarm and I put my mask on and I couldn't get my breath and if there had been very much gas it would have got me. Some leaves had got in my mask and stopped it up, but you can sure bet that I cleaned it out right away and have kept it that way ever since. I wouldn't sell my mask for $1000. I think lots of it. I take it with me every where I go.

Well from the way every thing looks now we will all get to come home pretty soon. I hope so at any rate. I would sure like to be there Thanksgiving to help you all eat that turkey, but I should worry if I don't we will have plenty of corned beef and hard tack which is hard to beat when a fellow is hungry. Well two of the boys have just come in off of a mission. They said they had quite a time dodging bombs and trucks with their masks on. I signed the pay roll the other day and am planning a big time when we move back from the front for a rest. There is not very much to buy over here, but I always manage to get rid of my pay before the next pay day comes around. There sure is a big demand for candy among the boys. They are like a bunch of little kids, but I guess it is because they know they can't get much of it over here. A fellow always wants something that he knows he can't get. We can get chocolate and cakes at the Y. M. C. A. every once and a while. The Y. M. C. A. goes with us every where we go. That makes it pretty nice. We never want for tobacco. The government issues us plenty of Bull Durham. I haven't saw but one man over here that I knew and that was Red Williams from Ada. I am with a Texas bunch.

Gray Whisenhunt Wounded
Somewhere in France, Aug. 21.
Dear Mother:
I am doing fine here. I am still in the hospital. Am alright but can't breathe as free as I used to. You see when the battle of the Marne started they used gas on us the third day of the fight and it knocked me out.

"A SPLENDID TONIC"

Says Hixson Lady Who, On Doctor's Advice, Took Cardui And Is Now Well.

Hixson, Tenn.—"About 19 years ago I was..." says Mrs. J. B. Gadd, of this place. "I suffered with a pain in my left side, could not sleep at night with this pain, always in the left side..."

My doctor told me to use Cardui. I took one bottle, which helped me and after my baby came, I was stronger and better, but the pain was still there.

I at first let it go, but began to get weak and in a run-down condition, so I decided to try some more Cardui, which I did.

This last Cardui which I took made me much better, in fact, cured me. It has been a number of years, still I have no return of this trouble.

I feel it was Cardui that cured me, and I recommend it as a splendid female tonic. Don't allow yourself to become weak and run-down from womanly troubles. Take Cardui. It should surely help you, as it has so many thousands of other women in the past 40 years. Headache, backache, sideache, nervousness, sleeplessness, tired-out feeling, are all signs of womanly trouble. Other women get relief by taking Cardui. Why not you? All druggists. NC-123

Then I got wounded, only a slight wound, but I had to leave the field, but don't worry about me. I will be alright. I am alright now only I can't breathe freely.

I will be glad when we get the Hun crushed and we can return to the dear old U. S. A., the nation of all nations.

Dear Father:
I guess you saw in the paper about the fight. Oh! but it was thrilling. One could not hear himself talk for the crash of shells and the fierce clatter of the machine guns. We charged them with bayonets and pistols. We licked them. They could not stop us, and they never can stop us. We will crush them. The Hun got more than he could chew when he got us. My life is charmed. They can't kill me. They discharged their rifles point blank at me and missed. How is that? A great many others had as good luck as I did.

From Harold Constant.
No doubt you know I have been over for some time. Let the U. S. some months ago and since then have traveled all over France, first one place and another, so have had a good chance to look the country over. They can have it, or my part of it at least. We landed here just at the time everything was at its best this summer, so have enjoyed the country, as it is a very beautiful country at that.

For the past few days have been doing nothing but listen to the patter of the rain on our billets and the hum of Fritz's shells. Speaking of shells; these have a lonesome old whine to them when they are coming your way, but all you can do is to speculate on the chances of one of them landing in your midst and finishing your part of the war. As for war news, I expect you at home know more really about the war than we do, for papers are few and far between, but some times we are in places where we are able to get the news regularly.

How is everything around the home town? Expect it is quiet with all the boys away, but it seems it is necessary that we all get in after these Huns and finish this thing up as soon as possible, and from the reports we are receiving now it seems like we have them on the go at this time; in fact, things look a lot better than they have for a long time.

From Lester Rains.
I am near Bordeaux, France, but don't know how long I shall be here. I am well and doing as fine as can be.

Mother, don't worry about me, for if I knew you were worrying about me I couldn't enjoy myself like I do, for there is nothing for me to worry about, for I get plenty to eat, a good place to sleep and good warm clothes to wear and I don't think that Dutchman is living who can get me any way so that I can't be happy. And I don't care how soon they send us to the front, for the sooner they send us there the sooner we will get to come back home.

From Carl Cook.
Camp Gaillard, Canal Zone.
We had a hard trip and most of the boys got seasick, but I made it all right. Have not been sick since I left home.

I hope you are well and getting along fine. If you need any money let me know and I will have it sent to you out of my pay.

It is some hot down here now but not like I thought it would be. It sure will be different this winter; no snow or cold weather. I don't think we shall be down here longer than six or seven months at the most.

PERSHING'S MENU SIMPLE BUT ABUNDANT IN QUANTITY

(By the Associated Press)
Rock Island, Ill., Oct. 16.—Future historians in compiling the story of the great war may find space to devote a paragraph to Francis Walker, of Milan, Ill., a suburb of Rock Island.

Young Walker has written his mother that he has been appointed chief cook in General Pershing's mess and that the commander-in-chief of the Am. Exp. forces is not "fussy about his food." However, he added, it isn't the kind of food that worries the general so much as the quantity and quality of the daily ration.

To Walker is entrusted the task of keeping warm the meals of one of the busiest men on the European continent. Insofar as is possible, he says, the General is on time at mess call, but frequently staff conferences and other matters of major import delay the commander-in-chief. On these occasions it is the duty of the chief cook to see to it that the food for the general and his immediate aides is kept warm and ready to serve whenever the staff car appears in front of headquarters.

"Plain food and plenty of it," covers Pershing's every-day menu, according to his cook.

DRESSMAKER GIVES ADVICE

"I underwent a surgical operation for gall stones five years ago, was in the hospital four weeks. For one year I felt better, but then my old symptoms and pains returned, and I have suffered ever since. Four weeks ago on the advice of a lady I tried Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, and I now feel like a new woman. I have a number of friends who suffer as I did and I am advising all to try this valuable medicine." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.—Gwin & Mays Drug Co., and Druggists Everywhere.

NURSES NEEDED.
If there is any one who will do nursing please call Red Cross headquarters—desperate need in several homes. MRS. ORVILLE SNEAD, Secretary.

A PREACHER SPEAKS:
SAYS PRAY AND BUY BONDS
We are in the midst of tumultuous times. What tomorrow may bring forth no man can foretell. Our soldiers engaged in the fight against tyranny are suffering wounds and death. Many of them will sleep in the soil of France. Ahead of us as a people lie anguish and heart aches of which we have only dreamed, but not felt.

We are in the grip of a scourge of influenza and our city is saddened by deaths occurring with striking rapidity. There is crepe on many a door and a hearse in every street. And yet what we are suffering at home is only a slight echo of what the boys endure all the while "Over There."

Let us call on our people to regard every suggestion that will prevent the spread of the epidemic. Let us urge our people not to allow peace talk to deter them from the purchase of Liberty Bonds. Go at once to headquarters and buy to the limit of your ability.

You are asked to remember that when human agency fails there is a source of power inexhaustible. "More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams." Let all our people give themselves to prayer to the Eternal Father. His love for his Son enables him to know how a mother loves her boy in France or in training camps.—Wallace M. Crutchfield, Pastor First Methodist Church.

DADDY'S EVENING TALK

SNAIL TSARINA
"Every little while," said the great big snake, in the zoo, "I believe in causing folks trouble."

"Perhaps I shouldn't say I like to cause trouble, but I like to do things differently and get every one excited. And why shouldn't I? I am the biggest snake in the whole world—that is what my keeper says—and I was brought to the zoo twelve long years ago."

"I'm sure I wouldn't know the length of time except the keeper is always telling people that I have been here twelve years and that that is a good long time. Ah, it's fine to live a long time if one is a snake, a nice wriggling, hissing snake."

"Hiss-hiss, ha, ha," laughed Mrs. Garter Snake, from her cage next door.

"What's the matter with you, Mrs. Garter; are you overcome from talking to such a great and big and magnificent snake as I am? If so, I shall stop talking for a moment, for it is true, I was talking to you, and it was a great honor for me to show you. I would have talked to some of the other snakes as well, only all of them have been sound asleep for a long time."

"I don't know that it was such an honor to be talked to when every other creature is asleep and can't hear," said Mrs. Garter.

"There, there," said the big snake, named the Tsarina, which meant something like queen, "I know you are making rude remarks only because you are embarrassed and shy. For it is always an honor to have me notice a smaller snake, no matter how many of our friends are asleep and can't properly be talked to. Well, well, I will have pity upon you, and pause until you regain your breath."

"The shyness, if there was any, is all over with," said Mrs. Garter. "I wish you would listen to me for a moment though."

"Gladly," said the Tsarina. "I am not too big a snake to listen to a smaller one. I am like magnificent people who are very great who will listen to the shouts and applause of the small and the weak."

"Well," said Mrs. Garter, "you said it was fine to live a long time if one happened to be a snake, a nice, wriggling, hissing snake."

"My very words," said the Tsarina. "Yes, exactly what I said. You have a good memory, Mrs. Garter, I make a bow to you—that is I wriggle once, especially for you. That is to show you I congratulate you on your memory and for your good sense in remembering what I said."

"But I don't see," said Mrs. Garter, "why you said it was fine to live a long time if one happened to be a snake, etc., etc. Why didn't you say it was fine when all snakes lived a long time, for all snakes were so nice and wriggling and hissing? It is true all folks don't think we are so nice, though."

"But to return to your first thought or first speech. You said you believed in causing trouble every little while. Tell me about that? Do you mean because you got out of your cage today and went wriggling around the whole snake house and the keeper and many men had to cover you with a huge rug to catch you?"

"Yes, hiss-hiss, wasn't that a joke? I got them all so excited. And I had the place to myself, I did. I showed what a queen I was—ruling every one with my wriggles instead of my sceptre and my crown—for I haven't those two things."

"You see," the big snake continued, "I had just had a little indigestion from eating a forty-pound pig. Usually such a meal doesn't upset me, but I must have been nervous and so I felt ill."

"The keeper tried to give me medicine and I didn't like it and managed to get out. And then he ran and everyone ran until at last they had me back in my cage. I took the medicine because I felt sick, but I kicked up a good fuss about it first as a queen should do when given medicine."

"Ah, but when I first came to the zoo, for ten months they had to shove things down my throat to make me eat. I had just lost my appetite."

"I've heard about that," said Mrs. Garter, "and I've been told that you are fifty years old. You're a python, you are, with beautiful colorings. But oh, Tsarina, you did give the zoo people a scare when you got out, for a snake of your size isn't what folks call a gentle thing!"

Worth Money.

A Buffalo man stopped a newsboy in New York, saying: "See here, son, I want to find the Blank National bank. I'll give you half a dollar if you direct me to it." With a grin the boy replied: "All right, come along," and he led the man to a building a half block away. The man paid the promised fee, remarking, however, "That was a half-dollar easily earned." "Sure!" responded the lad. "But you mustn't forget that bank directors is paid high in New York."

Keep on Smiling.

Don't growl, the dog can do that; don't scold, the hen is good at that; don't scream, the parrot excels in that. Just smile; mankind has a monopoly on that.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, gripping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without gripping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

The present Kaiser of Germany was always intensely jealous of Bismarck, the real founder of the present German empire. For many years past he has been busy erecting monuments throughout the nation to his grandfather, William I, the nominal head of the empire that the genius of Bismarck created. On these he inscribed the words, "William The Great," intending that when he himself had conquered the world that his statues should be inscribed, "William The Greatest." Two Napoleons ruled France, one known in history as "Napoleon the Great" and the other as "Napoleon the Little." In the Kaiser's case it will be "William the Littlest," or when his full responsibility for all this war and blood shed is recorded by historians, "William The Damned," as the former Sultan of Turkey, Abdul Hamid was termed. As for Bismarck very few monuments have been erected to his memory by the Kaiser.

The alliance of Finland with Germany will not likely be productive of very great results. The treaty was made by a bunch of leaders, either bought by German gold or else under compulsion of the German forces now in that state. Finland was originally a part of Sweden but was taken from that country by Peter the Great who was seeking access to the sea for Russia. Until recent years the Finns enjoyed greater freedom than another part of Russia, but the late czar undertook to Russinize the nation and endless trouble followed. It is not likely that these people will be ready for a mere exchange of oppressors and when the time comes to deliver the goods in the shape of armed forces the Kaiser will probably find that he has only plucked another lemon.

With every fresh success of the Allies we hear men remarking that the war will be over before the end of the year. While we rejoice in the success of our armies and do not underestimate the almost miraculous accomplishments of the past two months, we must warn everybody against over confidence. True, the Huns are being dealt staggering blows and are being pushed back towards the border, but they are yet a long way from being crushed and if the pressure of the Allies relaxed a minute they would strike back. The point is that we should not lose sight of the fact that there is still much to be done and subscribe as liberally as possible to the next Liberty Loan and other branches of war work so that the Huns will not be given a breathing spell because we were overconfident and gave him a chance to come back. Now that he is groggy from the punishment already received, just double the force of the blows and deliver a knock out punch as speedily as possible, else he may recover sufficiently to hand the Allies a few on the solar plexus. Too much confidence has lost many a fight but it must not be the means of losing this one. The war will not end this year and only hard fighting can win in next year.

you sold the machine or rented the house, and then you would quit.

If you were manufacturing goods or running a store, you would maintain your advertising continuously, because you would not be aiming to make one sale, but many—as many as you could. All right. Now comes along a war and upsets your supply of raw material, or made-up goods, or maybe the government takes over your output or curtails it, thereby either completely or partially eliminating your civilian trade. Would it be worth while to continue your advertising? This is the question that many of our big industries are facing. What are they doing? With hardly an exception they are continuing. Not with a view of influencing immediate sales. Not at all. But, realizing that present conditions are going to melt back into history at no very distant date they are KEEPING ALIVE THEIR NAMES AND REPUTATIONS. If they discontinued, think of the millions of dollars of good-will value back of all those trade marks and names that would be lost or greatly reduced. Preservation is nature's first law. Preservation of prestige is likewise the first law of business.

Among the larger industries to maintain, and in fact increase, their advertising this Fall, the Wm. Wrigley Jr. Company is noted, as evidenced by the "copy" now running on a frequent schedule in the News. Welcome, Mr. Wrigley, and we hope our local merchants will be heartened by your energy.

Also, Mr. Wrigley, may we commend your attitude of injecting a strong patriotic note in your advertising, instead of the usual sales talk about "Wrigley's" being great for appetite and digestion? We understand the soldiers and sailors are taking most of your output and that we at home will have to chew our Wrigley's a little longer. All right. "The flavor lasts," anyway, and we won't have to go completely without, judging from the stocks of your goods our merchants are apparently able to maintain in spite of war and high water.

We agree with Gen. Sherman in his definition of war, and we also agree with Mr. Wrigley in his statement that WE MUST WIN THIS WAR and that until we do, nothing else really matters.

In this connection, may we be permitted to remark that newspaper space is receiving earnest attention in these days of momentous news, and that the columns of the News are just as valuable as they ever were, if not more so, in stimulating goodwill and in maintaining the prestige of the goods, the trade marks and the names set forth therein.

SCHOOLS BANISHING GERMAN LANGUAGE

(By the Associated Press)
New York, Sept. 9.—Fourteen states in the Union have abolished the teaching of the German language in the schools and in sixteen other states a campaign to eliminate German is underway, according to an announcement made today by the American Defense Society. Many cities in the sixteen states where the campaign against the study of the German language is in progress have thrown German out of their schools but the state itself has not taken decisive action, says the announcement of the Society, which has been conducting a campaign against the study of German in the public schools.

This announcement was past upon a canvass of the states and cities which was conducted by Dr. Perry A. Dickie, of New York.

The states listed as having abolished the study of the German language from their schools are: Alabama, California, Connecticut, Delaware, Louisiana, Maine, Mississippi, Montana, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Tennessee, Utah and West Virginia.

The following states it is announced now have under consideration the abolition of the teaching of German: Arizona, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Indiana, Kansas, Michigan, Missouri, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Rhode Island, Texas, Virginia, Wisconsin.

The Society announced that the following cities have wholly or partly "thrown out" the study of German from their schools:
New York City, Philadelphia, Washington, D. C., Seattle, Louisville, Ky., Portland, Ore., Jersey City, N. J., Grand Rapids, Mich., Des Moines, Ia., Elizabeth, N. J., Passaic, N. J., Tacoma, Wash., Bayonne, N. J.,

The situation in the sixteen states where the campaign against the German language is reported as in progress is, in part, described in Dr. Dickie's report, as follows:
Arizona—German is fast being eliminated by our local boards.

Arkansas—Many of our public schools have discontinued the teaching of German. It has been practically discontinued in all of our high schools.

Florida—I think that practically all of the Germans have been removed from the schools without making any public demonstration about it. They just simply failed to re-election.

Georgia—We have decided to discontinue giving examination in German in order to certify teachers in this subject. There has been no rule school though it is becoming more unpopular every day.

Idaho—Teaching of German is prohibited in schools up to and including the eighth grade. Teaching of German in the high schools is left to the determination of the local boards.

Indiana—With the reassembling of the legislature ample provision will be made for the exclusion of German from our schools.

Kansas—There never has been any German to speak of taught in any of our elementary schools, and since the war it has been eliminated from practically half of our high schools.

Michigan—It is my opinion that at least 50 per cent of the schools of this state have dropped German from their courses of study. It has also been dropped from the courses of study of many higher institutions.

Missouri—So far as reports have come there will be one or two high schools outside of the cities which are planning to give German next year. The city high schools are limiting the teaching to students who are preparing for technical courses. In Kansas City the teaching has been discontinued altogether.

New Jersey—The State Board of Education passed a resolution under which it will be possible for every local board to prohibit the study of German. What will be the result time will tell.

New York—It appears that registration in German classes has fallen off about 80 per cent in schools where German is still optional. Next year German will be dropped in a majority of the high schools in the state, principally because the students will not have it. (No action against German by the legislature, or State Board of Education.)

Ohio—No measures have been taken in this state by the Department of Public Instruction for the removal of Germans from the public schools. It has not been necessary. They are removing it in nearly all the schools in the state of their own accord.

Rhode Island—Foreign languages never have been taught in Rhode Island's elementary schools. Several towns and cities have recently barred German from their high schools.

Texas—The legislature has enacted a law that the English language must be used exclusively in the conduct of the work of the schools, except in the foreign courses permitted in the high schools.

Virginia—German in most of the high schools of the state, is an elective study, and the high school pupils are not electing this subject.

Wisconsin—The teaching of German has already been discontinued in a good many schools of the state either through official action by the local board, or through the fact that there are no students asking for the subject.

"GROUND FLYING" EXCITING WORK

Behind British Lines in France, Sept. 9.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—"Ground flying" is perhaps the most exciting of all the aerial tactics in which the British airmen are instructing their American pupils in Northern France. It demands a high combination of skill and daring, but it is a game in which the British have during the past year won a marked superiority over the Germans.

The training of "ground flying" pilots is particularly thorough, and includes much necessary practice in leaping hills trees and telegraph poles, etc., in a manner which prompts the uninformed spectator to condemn the airman as a reckless fool.

But failing in this practice the pilot would never acquire the skill and confidence necessary for this highly specialized type of work. The machines used are fast and difficult to fly, and operating so close to the ground, the pilot knows that he has literally no more margin for indecision or hesitating than he has in actual aerial combat.

In "ground flying" tactics the pilot acts mainly on his own personal initiative, and he must be prepared to attack the enemy whenever he may be found, either with bombs, grenades, darts, or machine gun fire. Thus German officers in charge of ammunition dumps have every reason to fear the approach of a British "low flier." The fear of machine gun fire is even greater, and whole German regiments have been decimated and demoralized by British airplanes.

German batteries, railway stations, billets, training ground and aerodromes are frequently attacked in this way, and the moral effect is very great. Von Richthofen, the famous German airfighter, now dead, once described how an English machine one night came down to a height of 150 feet, through a fusillade of gun fire and a blinding glare of searchlights, to bomb a German aerodrome with deadly effect. Richthofen considered it "tremendously plucky that the man didn't swerve but came straight on in accordance with his plans."

AGRICULTURAL SHOW BIG

Drouth Will Not Hurt the Oklahoma State Fair Show.

Oklahoma City.—Drouth conditions will not curtail the annual agricultural exhibition at the Oklahoma State Fair & Exposition. Numerous county exhibit entries have already been made, and more are coming in daily. It is axiomatic that even in the drouth sections of the state many good farms located along streams and in bottom lands may be found. Exhibits this year from the drouth sections may be made up easily from crops grown on these farms, and it is entirely possible that a drouth county may carry off the historic agriculture loving cup and first money at Oklahoma City this year.

FAST HORSES AT THE FAIR

Speed Kings and Queens of West Race at Oklahoma City.

Oklahoma City.—Some of the fastest horses west of the Mississippi river are expected to race for purses aggregating $5,450. at the Oklahoma State Fair & Exposition this year. Racing days are Monday, September 23, Tuesday, September 24, Thursday, September 26, and Friday, September 27. The 2:20 trot on the first racing day the 2:11 pace on the second, the 2:14 trot on the third and the 2:17 pace on the fourth are all for purses of $300 and will attract many fast entries. The Oklahoma derby, run for a purse of $500, is scheduled for September 26. There are sixteen harness events and as many running races scheduled.

LIVESTOCK PROSPECT GOOD

State Fair Barns to Be Filled to Overflowing.

Oklahoma City.—Prospects for the greatest livestock exhibition ever seen in Oklahoma encourage Secretary I. S. Mahan of the Oklahoma State Fair & Exposition to expect a most successful season in that department. Entries are coming in from some of the largest breeders in the country. One of the largest Percheron breeders in Chicago has asked for stalls for his string of high-class animals; cattle entries are coming in rapidly from Oklahoma, Texas, Missouri, Mississippi, Arkansas, Illinois and many states even farther away.

FAIR GROUNDS BEAUTIFIED

Oklahoma City.—Thousands of dollars have been spent by the Oklahoma State Fair & Exposition this year to make the State Fair grounds a place of beauty. Scores of gigantic flower beds dot the grounds; the cement walks and driveways are bordered by brilliant cannas and other flowers; the grass has been carefully watered and attended, and hundreds of trees furnish cool shade.

A Soldier's Ambition.

A returned war correspondent tells a fine, characteristic story of an American soldier's after-war plans.

This particular American, whose name happens to be spelled with about 14 consonants, and whom his comrades call "Big Boy" for short, was lying on a cot in a French hospital, with arms and legs paralyzed. Now and then the orderly would steal to his bedside, place a lighted cigarette between his lips and disappear. In five minutes the orderly would come back and pull the stump out of the patient's mouth, to the accompaniment of a grateful look. Also, now and then some well-meaning woman would come in, and, seeing Big Boy plight, would lay a flower on his bed. And that unregenerate paralytic, the moment the donor had gone, would shout to the orderly, "Dan! remove the funeral decorations!"

That, however, is not the story. It is merely back ground. The patients started telling each other what they were going to do when they got back home, and Big Boy horned in as follows:

"I'll tell you what you'd like to do, and what I'm going to do. I am going back to my little town in Ohio. I am going to get a bunch of cracker boxes down on the main street of my town, and when I get all the kids and townspeople around me, I am going to outlie all the war veterans from the days of Alexander to Pershing."

That finished it. The other fellows all quit. He had "said it" at West's, Schrieber's, s.—Burk's.

THE KAISER WANTS YOU TO SPEND

Make That Old Suit Do For a While Yet.

This is addressed to you, Mr. American Citizen. It is also addressed to your family. It is up to you whether the war is won or lost. Some will tell you that food will do it. Some will tell you that coal is the thing that is going to save the day. But it is neither of these, nor is it all of them taken together, although each and every one of them will contribute its bit to the Cause of Democracy. There is only one factor in the struggle that counts—YOU.

You count just as much as the boys at the front. But you have to make yourself count by practicing the closest economy. Take, for instance, the matter of clothing. We all know that clothing is necessary to civilized man. But during these war days it is not necessary to expend the amount of money for them as in the past. Think what it would mean if every man, woman and child in the United States today should buy heavily of clothing. It would mean depriving necessary war industries of much needed labor.

Battlefront indications are that the war is to come to an end within the next year—when our boys get into full stride 'over there.' Now, we can win this war for the side of Justice just as easily as not. Providing, of course, we do just one thing, practice economy. Therefore, we say to you Mr. American Citizen, Don't buy unnecessary clothing this year. Send your old garments to a first-class cleaning and dyeing establishment and put the difference between the cost of refurbishing up old clothing and the cost of new into War Savings Stamps and Liberty bonds.

Patriotically yours,
